ABOUT ME

I completed my master's degree in Information Science in December 2023, and I am now seeking to expand my knowledge with relevant work experience. I am a full-stack developer proficient in the entire development process from prototype to finished product. Throughout my studies, I have gained extensive experience with Python, JavaScript, HTML, CSS, R, SQL, and machine learning. Within machine learning, I have worked on prediction analysis, NLP, and recommendation systems.

With 10 years of work experience in customer service, I have learned to understand customers' needs and provide tailored solutions, as well as handle customer complaints and resolve issues efficiently. Working in retail has taught me the importance of effective communication and clearly explaining products and services, as well as working as part of a team and coordinating with colleagues to achieve sales goals and improve the customer experience. In an ever-changing industry, it is crucial to adapt and quickly learn new systems for handling claims and customer service. These skills are among the many I bring to a developer position.

My colleagues often describe me as a positive and approachable person, and I strive to maintain a positive and accessible demeanor.

EXPERIENCE

○ 2014-2024
Obs! Bygg, Lagunen - Laguneveien 19 5239 Rådal
Store Assistant

I worked nearly full-time before I started studying, but I reduced my hours to a 33% position after I began at the University of Bergen. This is also the position I hold today, but with extra shifts every week, I am now working nearly full-time.
